

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation. Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. Instead of giving the public non-partisan, objective reporting, this company is shoving their right-wing viewpoint down our throats and calling it a documentary.

Obviously this company has a vested interest in the Republican Party and has no right to claim they are an unbiased media company. The Republican party should have to pay for this advertisement.

As an American citizen I demand that the FCC stop this charade and force this company to not air this political ad. Sincerely, PW Jacobs
